

A close-up photograph of a printed circuit board (PCB) populated with numerous integrated circuits (chips) and other electronic components. A large orange circle is drawn over a central portion of the board, highlighting a specific area of interest. The components are densely packed, and the board's traces are visible.

